The Auburn Cubs, for the second time this year put the Barts on the short end of the score when they pounded out a 5-1 over the locals in a slow and listless game at Auburn Sunday.

In what should have been a close pitcher's battle, between Dave Roderick of the Bartlets and Pat Hurley of the Cubs, the game was tossed away by two costly errors, one by Roderick, himself, and the other by Billy Clark at short.

The two teams entered the last of the third, with the Barts having the best of the battle up to that time, having men on bases during the first and

County Committee Meets Monday On Conservation Work

Inspected and approved range applications by range owners in Alpine, Amador, Calaveras and El Dorado counties, under the Agricultural Conservation Act for 1937 were reviewed and passed upon by the executive committee of the four-county association at a meeting Monday at the Farm Advisor's office.

According to B. E. Haslam, secretary of the association, the range applications number about 160 and, if all of the conservation work instituted is approved upon inspection, range owners of the four counties will have earned under terms of the conservation act approximately $22,000 of which approximately $10,000 will have been earned by El Dorado County range owners.

Bernard Dobbas, range examiner for this district, is making inspections to determine the degree of compliance in the work outlined and the applications reviewed at Monday's meeting were those on which his inspection had been completed.

Reckless Driving Draws Fine

C. A. Pitchford, charged with reckless driving, was found guilty Monday morning in city court and was fined $50 and his license to drive was revoked.

Pitchford was driving in an easterly direction on Main street Saturday evening when, he explained to City Judge Eugene Creed, he lost control of his car just east of the junction of Main street and Cedar Ravine.

The machine veered into the opposite line of traffic, brushed a passing car and came to rest against a tree and fence.

Chairman Dan M. Bassi was in town Monday to preside over the special meeting of the Board of Supervisors.

GRANDSTAND Gossip

By Bob Vivian

Auburn seems to be the nemesis of the Bartlets. The Cubs are the only team the locals have failed to knock over this year. The team seems to get stage fright against the Cubs and make errors that prove costly. The Cubs pitchers in both games have set the locals down with few hits.

The game Sunday, was slow and uninteresting from a spectator's view. Neither team played a top brand of ball, taking two hours and fifteen minutes to play a game, that could have been finished in a hour and a half.

Jurd, base umpire, gave a very rare—almost raw—decision when he called

PARADE OF SPORTS

By HENRY McLEMORE (United Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK (UP)—If my linen duster and motoring cap have escaped the moths, and if the glass in my goggles still is intact, I think I'll roll one of my cars out of the garage next Saturday and have a go at the Vanderbilt Cup on Roosevelt raceway.

When I say "roll" I mean just that, because not one of my automobiles has even so much as backfired in the past ten years. They are, in the order in which they are lined up in the shed, a Stevens-Duryea, a Flanders, a Saxon, a Haynes, an E. F. M., and a pair of Stearns—White and Stanley.

If I do enter the 300-mile Vanderbilt Cup race I don't know which car I'll use. The Stevens-Duryea has a

P. O. Building Improved

Second Story Will Be Added, Roof To Be Repaired

Carrying out a contract held by Den Morton, workmen on Monday morning began improvement of the Sumner building, at the corner of Main and Coloma streets, housing the postoffice and the Placerville Flower Shop.

Bob Beach is supervising the work. According to Mrs. L. J. Sumner, owner of the property, the extent to which the improvement may be carried is not definitely determined except that in putting a new roof on the building it has been decided to extend the walls up to provide for a second story on the building. Whether this may immediately be finished on the interior has not been determined.

The walls and foundation of the building, when the structure was erected, were planned and built with the expectancy that at some time a second story might be added.

UNIONS CHARGE COERCION AS WORKERS RETURN TO JOBS

Company Officials Report Thousands Of Steel Mill Employees Resuming Work After 32 Days Of Idleness

By JOE ALEX MORRIS (United Press Staff Correspondent)

CLEVELAND (UP)—More men went back through straggling picket lines to the steel mills today as union leaders charged company officials, militia and state troopers with coercive and terroristic tactics against strikers in Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Warning that "necessary measures" would be taken against what they termed a "systematic campaign of terror" to break the seven-state steel strike, unionists claimed that their ranks would remain firm until four struck companies sign union contracts.

In contrast, company officials announced thousands of workers were returning to picketed plants in the Youngstown, Ohio and Johnstown, Pa., areas and that other Ohio and Indiana mills would soon be reopened.

Picket lines dwindled or disappeared in Ohio's Mahoning Valley district as Republic and Youngstown Sheet & Tube mills resumed operations after 32 days of idleness.

Two men were beaten in an outbreak of violence at Johnstown when thousand of workers disregarded pickets—reinforced by unionists from railroads and coal mines—in order to return to work.

Frederick Barss Rites Wednesday

Graveside funeral services for Frederick A. Barss, who died recently at Modesto, will be held at 3:30 on Wednesday afternoon at Union cemetery. They will follow rites held earlier in the day at Modesto, where Mr. Barss had made his home for many years.

Word received by friends of the family from Miss Etta Blackiston, a sister of Mrs. Barss, who chanced to be visiting at the Barss home at the time of Mr. Barss' death, state that Mr. Barss suffered a stroke on Wednesday morning and rallied for a time; then passed on.

At the time of his father's death the eldest son, Fred, Jr., was in Colorado on vacation and he will not reach home until Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ward stopped at the Barss home on Tuesday of last week while in Modesto, and although the elder Mr. Barss was not well at that time, none suspected an impending tragic turn in his condition.

Mayor Gets Bid To Salinas Rodeo

Mayor George E. Faugst today received an invitation from the California Rodeo, Horse Fair and Stock Show to be its guest on California State Day, Thursday, July 15th, 1937 at Salinas. This will be the day when the governor will announce California's finest outdoor high school girl who will be the ambassador of good will to Mexico.

He expects to return to American soil the latter part of July and after a tour of the Eastern and Southern states will return to Placerville some time in August.

Bodies Are Found By Police

State-Wide Search For Pasadena Youth As Suspect Ordered

INGLEWOOD (UP)—The bodies of the three little girls, kidnaped last Saturday from a public park, were found late today in the Baldwin Hills, the sheriff's office announced.

Other details immediately were lacking.

Meanwhile, all police and sheriff's officers in the state were asked in a teletype bulletin to join in the search for Othel LeRoy Strong, 22-year-old Pasadena youth, identified by Olive Everett, older sister of two of the victims, as the man whom the girls accompanied from the park.

Strong is described as weighing about 135 pounds, five feet nine and one-half inches tall, medium brown hair and eyes.

When last seen he was wearing a light brown shirt and blue overalls. He has a small black mustache and is believed to be traveling in a Model "A" Ford coupe, color unknown. A distinguishing feature of the car is that it is minus some or all of the fenders and running boards.

INGLEWOOD (UP)—Olive Everett, 11, today identified a picture of a man who kidnaped her two younger sisters and a neighbor's child, police reported. Police Captain Ed Muir refused to name the man she selected from pictures, but he was believed to be an ex-sailor, four times arrested on morals charges, the mysterious "Eddie" who is believed to have lured the three girls from Centinela Park, here.

Olive was awakened at her home and taken to police headquarters, secretly. She furnished the only direct clue upon which one of the greatest searches in the history of Southern California was being conducted.

Police, firemen, Legionnaires, Boy Scouts, mounted troops, G-Men, and citizens searched the Baldwin Hills.

Accompanying his action, he sent an estimate to Congress that a $350,000,000 appropriation will be needed to carry out provisions of the act for the 1938 fiscal year.

The President originally asked that CCC be made a permanent part of the federal government.

Congress amended the measure to provide a three-year extension.

Heat Sunday Set Record

Hottest June 27 Since 1925, Local Records Show

Following a high mark of 103 on Saturday, temperatures on Sunday reached a maximum of 105 in Placerville to make the day the warmest June 27 since 1925 when the maximum was 106.

Sacramento, according to a United Press report, had 108 officially to make the day the warmest June 27 in 61 years.

Monday brought a break, at least temporarily in the heat wave, and the promise of "showers and thunder storms tonight and Tuesday."

Despite high temperatures here and in the valley as well sending the heaviest travel of the season to the higher altitudes, there were no serious accidents reported.

Also, in the face of the greatest forest fire danger of the year to date, no fires of consequence were reported on Sunday.

Monday morning Pacific district experienced a small fire, started by lightning and was expecting some others of a similar nature in view of the thunder-storm forecast.

The state division of forestry had a small grass fire near Pine Hill lookout, to which it dispatched the truck from El Dorado.

Records of the local weather station, according to Adolph Martin, observer, show maximum June temperatures of 107 on June 30, 1934; and 108 on June 26th, 1925, and on the next day, June 27, 1925, the 106 was recorded.

Grade Crossing Crashes Kill 195, Injure 769 In Year

One hundred and ninety-five persons were killed in the state, and 769 were injured in 2,169 grade crossing accidents during 1936, the California Railroad Commission was informed today in a report compiled by its transportation department.

The totals compare with 126 deaths, 743 injuries and 1,939 accidents during 1935. During 1936 there was an average of 5.9 grade crossing accidents per day, resulting in the death of 3.8 persons and injury to 14.8 persons a week.

On all highways through out the state there were during 1936 36,316 accidents, 49,336 injuries and 3,132 deaths, all reflecting increases over 1935. Grade crossing fatalities resulted in 6.2 per cent of the highway deaths last year, a reduction from 8.9 per cent since 1929.

Since 1913, the report declares, there has been a gradual decrease in the number of casualties per 10,000 vehicles in the state in grade crossing accidents. For that year there were 37.6 casualties for every 10,000 vehicles while in 1936 there were 3.6. Grade crossing accidents last year resulted in property damage to automobiles and trains totaling $301,000.

Recently the transportation department has held conferences at which public officials are representatives of railroads participated in a search for better grade crossing protection.

"The slight increase in grade crossing accidents during the past year emphasizes the importance of a concerted effort to reduce accidents at grade crossings," the report concluded. "This can be brought about by eliminating the most hazardous crossings by separation as fast as this work can be financed and justified; installation of

"Sweating Cave" Is Found In Maine

WEST LUBEC, Me. (UP)—An Indian "sweating cave" has been discovered here.

The cave was identified as such by Jim McDonald, veteran trapper and hunter of Black Head.

The cave was built of stones without mortar. In the center was a hollow where a fire was built and stones placed around it. When the stones got hot, those suffering from colds, coughs and pneumonia, would gather around while water was poured over the hot stones. Steam penetrated their blankets and the patient perspired. This was done until all pain was gone from the body.

Wendell Henderson, Lake County rancher, will try to keep deer off his ranch by using an electric fence.

Motor City Offers Stellar Band For July 3 And 4

Speaking of Merle Carlson coming to Motor City, July 3 and 4, according to Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Barker, owner and operators of Motor City Ballroom, others of the country's leading orchestras and dance bands will be brought to their dance hall, which is located three miles east of Placerville on Lake Tahoe highway, providing the dance fans show that they want such high class music.

"If the appearance of Merle Carlson and his orchestra, who are members of the Music Corporation of America, booking all the country leading dance orchestra, at Motor City on two nights, Saturday and Sunday, July 3 and 4th, draws a good crowd," say Mr. and Mrs. Barker, then we will feel that the people of this community appreciate having a fine dance band brought in once in a while. "These dance bands," continued the Barkers, "are engaged at a tremendous cost, from $250.00 for a single night to as high as $750.00 for one appearance. And believe us, plenty of dance tickets have to be sold in order to break even on a deal like this."

According to the management of Motor City, other dance bands which could be secured are such as: Jimmy Dorsey and his orchestra, Glenn Gray and his Casa Loma orchestra, Earl Hines, famous colored orchestra and Kay Barclay's California All-Girl orchestra.

SIR JAMES STRICKEN—Sir James Barrie, beloved author of "Peter Pan" and other stories, stricken by bronchial pneumonia in London. He was born in Scotland 77 years ago.

THE Book Mark

By JANE VOILES

The death of Sir James Barrie leaves an emptiness that no other writer living today can fill. A shy little man, Barrie was, with a dome-like forehead, and he liked to lurk in corners. Because whimsy is discredited at present, his popularity has waned but some of his work will undoubtedly live. First the stage and now the films have made most of his plays familiar but we hope that the plays will not entirely shuffle his delightful sketches into oblivion.

That fine tribute to mothers, "Margaret Ogilvy" that we should have suggested as the very best Mother's Day reading is one of the superb mother sketches in books. The early stories about the weavers in Thrums were written largely from his mother's recollections. The weavers or "Auld Lichts" were distinguished by a dislike of innovations, a remarkable taste for sermons and a love of attending funerals, invitations to which were always eagerly sought.

One of Barrie's best characters, Tammas Haggart, appears in almost all of the early books. He is a good example of Scotch loquacity openly boasting that he could manage all women. In fact, he could have managed even Mary Queen of Scots.

"Ah, they can be managed," he would say compacently, "if I had been Mary's man, I would have stood none of her tantrums. 'Na, Mary, my lass, I would have said, this wimmo do. You're a bonny body but ye maun mind that man's the lord of creation, that he's the superior and so ye maun just sing small.' Ilka morning I would hae said to her, 'Mary, I would hae said, 'Whae's to wear the breeks today, you or me? Aye, syne, I would hae ordered her to kindle the fire or if I had been the king, I would hae told her to ring the bell and hae the cloth laid for breakfast. Aye, that's the wye to make the like o' Mary respect ye."

Barrie was like the little boy with a penny whistle of two stops, the weep and the chuckle.

Someday a learned article will be written upon why the time spirit is so propitious to the writing of autobiographies. We suspect that publishers who are shrewd people seeing the stupendous circulation of the True Story and True Confession type of magazines, concluded that they might as well reap some of the benefits. Desiring to cultivate this taste of the public's upon a higher plane and to profit by it as well, they began urging all people with this itch for self expression to write their autobiographies. Moreover, they were not to wait until they were in their dotage but write while their memories were still vivid and swift.

Today two autobiographies written by men who are comparatively young, lead the best seller lists—Noel Coward's "Present Indicative" and Burton Rascoe's "Before I Forget."

Because Burton Rascoe is a literary man, his book may not have the wide appeal of Coward's. However, it is not in the least a bookish kind of book in the sense of being far removed from the emergencies of daily living. Indeed, the account of his boyhood in Kentucky and Oklahoma is told with all the raciness and verve of the good American he-man. Rascoe is one of those rare individuals who loves work for its own sake. In the newspaper office he can handle job upon job and still have time for his family and his friendships. He is fearless in his statements about the Chicago newspapers but he is more honest than urbane in facing his own problems.

Noel Coward's "Present Indicative" is certain to command a large audience. Coward is an actor of note as well as the author of some two dozen plays. In spite of Hollywood, the glamour of the stage continues to hold the interest of some of the American people. Young Coward, he is in his thirties, is a kind of Jack-be-nible, who likes "to burble bright witticisms." In one sentence he sounds like a smart Alec but in the next he disarms you with his honesty and humility. On the whole, he tells about his humiliations with the same gusto that he tells about his triumphs.

Although Noel Coward had his trials and his lean times, success came to him long before it comes to the average person who achieves it. We are not at all sure that he is a shining example of the personality methods advocated so widely today. He was persistent, but he persisted always with a blithe spirit and he had a lot of fun while he was persisting. Frequently enough "fortune favored him with violent and unexpected slaps on the back."

One of the compensations of reading autobiographies written by men who are not too old is that they do not adorn their tales with morals or write down to their readers. It is a kind of exchange of experience and, in reading these two books, pleasant experience.

Doctor Heiser author of "An American Doctor's Odyssey" will lecture in several cities in California in October.

Chicken Casserole

This dish makes an ample meal for 2 and can be made to serve 3 in a pinch. Get a 2-pound broiler and have the butcher cut it in 4 pieces. Wash, dry and saute in 4 tablespoons melted butter until golden brown. While the chicken is browning, prepare your vegetables. Mix ½ cup sliced, scraped carrots, 1½ cups diced, pared potatoes and 2 tablespoons finely minced onion. Put half of the vegetables in the casserole, arrange the pieces of broiler on top and add the rest of the vegetables. Pour in 1 cup canned chicken broth or chicken bouillon into the dish, sprinkle with salt and pepper and the butter in which the chicken was browned. Cover and bake in a slow oven for 1 hour. Serve from the casserole. A bowl of salad greens and sliced tomatoes with French dressing goes well with this.

Rhubarb Crisp
Wash 1 pound rhubarb and cut in ½-inch slices. Do not peel the tender pink stalks. Put into a 1-quart casserole, sprinkle with a mixture of ¾ cup sugar, ½ cup flour and 3 tablespoons butter crumbled together lightly. Bake 30 minutes in a hot oven until the rhubarb is tender and the topping crisp. Serve hot with a fluffy hard sauce of custard sauce. This makes 4 portions.

Vegetable Cocktail
This colorful appetizer can be made with odds and ends of vegetables. For 2, use ½ cup cooked asparagus cut into ½-inch pieces, 2 tablespoons minced celery, 1 teaspoon minced chives, 3 tablespoons diced cucumber, ½ cup tomato or chili sauce and ½ teaspoon lemon juice. Mix thoroughly, season to taste with salt and chill thoroughly. Place a small lettuce leaf in a cocktail glass, fill with the vegetable mixture and serve with toasted saltines or crackers with melted cheese.

Pineapple Meringue Pie
Pineapple pie will please any new husband. Mix ½ cup cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon salt and ½ cup sugar. Add to 2 cups hot crushed pineapple, with 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind. Cook in a double boiler until the mixture thickens. Cool and turn into a ready baked 7-inch pie shell. Cover with a meringue made from the stiffly beaten whites of 2 eggs blended with 4 tablespoons powdered sugar and a few drops lemon juice. Bake in a slow oven until the meringue is brown.

LABOR DECISIONS COMPILED BY C. OF C.

A complete digest of the Supreme Court decisions on the Wagner Labor Relations Act was sent today to 7,500 employer members and affiliated organizations of the California State Chamber of Commerce by Preston Hotchkis, chairman of the state chamber's labor relations committee.

According to Hotchkis, the digest includes the National Labor Relations Act together with rules and regulations governing its administration, decisions of the National Labor Relations Board, and decisions of the United States Supreme Court affecting board rulings.

"The report," said Hotchkis, "is unique in that it expresses no opinion, but confines itself entirely to quotations from Supreme Court and Labor Board decisions."

Alfred Brady was in town from Cool on Monday, conferring with School Superintendent E. J. Fitzgerald on problems associated with school district management.

"Gossip" About Sunday's Game

Backerich out at first base in the fourth inning. Backerich had gained first by a single, and in an effort to catch him off the bag, Siem, Auburn catcher, threw high to first. Viano going high in the air to take the ball. Jurd called Backerich out while both Viano and the ball were in the air. The play wasn't even close, it was just poor umpiring on the part of Jurd.

Pat Hurley faced Roderick three times, and drew a free trip to first on each occasion, and scored twice. The passes were the only ones Roderick issued during the day, and Hurley showed his appreciation by bouncing one of Roderick's knee in the seventh.

Mike Backerich, who didn't do much hitting the first half, kept up his heavy slugging for the second part of the league, Mike collected a double and a single in four tries, and his line drive put out in center, was a hard smash.

Bob Begovich, playing right field, was one of the four Bartlets to hit. Begovich singled on his second trip to the plate, and had one chance in the field, which he handled nicely.

The defeat did not bring the Barts down in the standings, as the Folsom nine, who are "content to stagger through the play-off," didn't stagger long enough and lost to Scoop's Colfax Lions by a 16-15 score, in what must have been a staggering ball game.

Jo Viano was the heavy hitter for the Cubs, getting two bingles in three tries.

Benny Barnwell, the league's .600 hitter took a big drop in his batting average when he hit only once in four trips to the plate. Barnwell's hit was a line drive into left field.

Two double plays were chalked up in the game Sunday, each team making one. The Auburn play was from Barnwell to Chambers to Viano; the Barts' from Neil to Clark to Backerich.

Next Sunday's round of play will most likely decide the four teams to engage in the championship play-offs, the big game being at Colfax where the Roseville Tigers meet the Lions. A loss for either of the clubs will drop them out of the race. Auburn will gain a win over the Wheatland nine, while Folsom, if losing their two re-

FILE EXEMPTION CLAIMS BEFORE JULY 1st

Senate bill 187 providing for suspension of annual assessment work on mining claims held by location in the United States for the year 1936-1937, was approved by the President, June 24, 1937.

By this act the provision of section 2324 R. S. requiring $100 worth of labor or improvement each year on each mining claim is suspended during the year July 1, 1936 to July 1, 1937 providing applications are filed by claimants entitled to exemption from payment of federal income tax for taxable year 1936, at the office where location notice or certificate is recorded, by noon July 1, 1937, containing a notice of a desire to hold such mining claim under this act. Suspension of work would not apply to more than six lode mining claims held by one person, nor back entrance, which would be handy in case of an accident, but the wicker lunch baskets it sports on either side spoil its streamlining. The Flanders handles easily but I'm afraid its two cylinders wouldn't stand that long a grind. The Haynes is out because I've misplaced the lap robe that is such an essential part of its well-being, and I think the Steamers are ineligible.

So perhaps the Saxon will be my choice. A sweet little car, that Saxon. Mine's a roadster with one of those "one-man" tops—you know, the kind that'll keep one dry if he has on a stout raincoat. Dependable, too. The last trip I made in it was in 1919, and I remember how I made the entire trip between Bradenton and Sarasota, a distance of 14 miles, without a single stop.

That is, a stop for mechanical difficulties. There were three blowouts, which I quickly repaired with one of those kits containing patches, glue, and a coconut grater.

The Saxon won't make more than 25 miles an hour, even under the whip, but I think it would have just as much chance of beating the foreign cars as any of the other American machines. You remember what happened in the race last year, of course. Tazio Nuvolari if Italy, driving an Alfa Romeo, made a parade of the thing, and the only time the American drivers worried him was when he was passing them.

This year the race is even more at the mercy of the imported drivers and cars, because in addition to Nuvolari there will be the three great German drivers—Bernd Rosemeyer, Rudolf Caracciola, and Ernest Delius—the Norwegian star, Eugene Bjornstad, and one of England's crack pilots, Dick Seaman.

All of these are very hot numbers, especially the Germans Rosemeyer and Caracciola. And what cars they drive, my friends. They will be behind the wheels of auto-unions, the fastest road-racing machines in the world. Seaman and Delius will use a Mercedes.

The American cars simply can't match these government-subsidized European jobs. The Americans know this, as was shown when they refused to enter the race until officials kicked in with a pot of $10,000 for the first, second, third and fourth Americans to finish. The boys demanded consolation money and got it.

second stanzas, while Roderick had set the Cubs down in order. Joe Triano, started the Cubs to victory by poking a single into right. He was sacrificed to second by third baseman Dunn, and after Hurley drew a pass, scored on Chambers' two base swat to left field, Hurley taking third. Dave whiffed Viano, but in an effort to catch Chambers off second, Roderick threw the ball into center field, Hurley scoring, and Chambers taking third.

Barnwell doubled to score Chambers and give the Cubs a 3-0 lead.

Auburn, in the fifth, scored two unearned and unneeded runs, when they combined a hit, a walk and an error. Hurley, to start the inning, drew his second walk of the game, and after Chambers popped out, went to third on Viano's double at short, Clark fielded the ball and threw wild to the plate, Hurley and Viano both scoring on the error.

The Cubs collected but one more hit than the locals but with the aid of the breaks, made them count.

Pat Hurley in setting the local down with but five scattered hits, allowed but two runners past second. Warren in the fourth, and Reeder, who scored the Barts' lone tally, in the eighth, Reeder was given a free trip to first stole second and scored on Backerich's drive down the left field foul line.
